Impressions of Iceland and Greenland

Top Description

This presentation will show my impressions of Iceland and Greenland. These photogenic countries have many beautiful sights among which are waterfalls, ice caves, seashores, mountains, and icebergs. A huge amount of geologic activity is one of the more interesting aspects of Iceland. This activity is the cause of the varied terrain. Many of the man made sites are bright and colorful. Because of the proximity of Iceland and Greenland to Russia the area had a prominent place in the cold war between the USSR and the United States.

Biography

My major interest in photography is in documenting my travel trips. After graduation from City College of New York as a Chemical Engineer, I “bummed around” Europe and Israel for six months, staying at youth hostels and putting 5000 miles on a Moped. I particularly like visiting off-the-beaten-track places whose culture and language are different from ours. With the exception of Australia, my wife Midge and I have visited all seven continents. I’m a long time member of the Westchester Photographic Society, with whom I’ve exhibited some of my work, and as a “Snowbird” living in Florida for the winters, I’m a member of the Boynton Beach Camera Club.
