Boston Red Sox Senior Manager of Photography

Billie Weiss will discuss and illustrate the day to day responsibilities of his role as the official team photographer for the Boston Red Sox. He will also offer tips and tricks for capturing moving subjects, and discuss the mentality and mindset involved with making a great sports photograph. You will see examples of bold, vibrant, iconic imagery from both Fenway Park and other sports venues and events throughout the world. We will leave plenty of time for a question and answer session in hopes of having a great discussion and dialogue surrounding ways to improve your technical skills with motion and sports photography.

Biography

Billie is based in Boston, Massachusetts, where he is the Senior Manager of Photography for Boston Red Sox. Since 2012, Billie has documented numerous notable moments in Boston Red Sox history, including the 100th anniversary of Fenway Park, the retirement of David Ortiz, and two World Series championships in 2013 and 2018.

Originally from Baltimore, Maryland, he holds an M.S. in Journalism from Boston University and a B.A. in Communications and Spanish from Goucher College. Billie is also an independent commercial, editorial, and event photographer and videographer and has partnered to create visual content for numerous brands and businesses.
